Find the Best Solution Together

We all know how it feels to be uncertain about a product, especially when there are no options to try it or test it first. We want to be sure that the product we're going to buy is the right one for us.

With hearing aids, you might experience the same situation. Your hearing care professional has thoroughly tested your hearing. You have discussed the many aspects of your hearing loss and treatment options. You have answered questions about your current situation, your needs, and your preferences. And finally, your hearing care professional has recommended the hearing aids and performance categories that might suit you best.

Do you still feel hesitant to make a choice?

Your hearing care professional understands that making a confident decision without having tried and compared the hearing aids can be difficult.

This is where the BeFlex hearing aid trial system from Bernafon can really help.

Combine Professional Guidance with Personal Experience

Hearing aids come in different performance categories for different hearing losses and preferences. The goal of the BeFlex trial hearing aids is to help determine which performance category will be just right for you.

Your hearing care professional can program up to three performance categories into one BeFlex hearing aid.

Switch between the performance categories, compare them, and get a feeling for which one might be right for you.

Be Actively Involved in Your Purchase Decision

Wear the BeFlex instrument in your everyday life, at home and on the go. Experience how Bernafon hearing aids sound in your own specific environments. Change between performance categories with just a push of a button on the BeFlex instrument or external remote control. This will allow you to directly compare the different performance categories in the same sound situation.

After the trial period, the hearing aid will shut down. At your next follow-up appointment, your hearing care professional will be able to show you which performance category you've used the most. This is likely the one with which you feel most comfortable. You will also be able to say which performance category you preferred in situations that were important to you.
